

There are many different types of map. Many maps provide what we call an aerial or bird's-eye-view image of an area. This means they look down onto things.

This is an example of a bird's-eye-view classroom. Notice how the objects look different when we look at them from above.

Task

Use the image above to help you create your own bird's-eye-view plan of your bedroom. You may need to add labels or create a picture key to help make it clear.

Additional Task

Can you now create an aerial plan of your garden (including your house)?
